

Curriculum Vitae

Victoria Manko

Deputy General Director of the International and Comparative Law Research Center

Graduated from St. Petersburg State University, Moscow State University with a degree in International Economic Law.

She worked in Moscow-based international law firms advising clients on international law matters.

In 2016, she started working at the International and Comparative Law Research Center, where she held the position of Assistant General Director.

In November 2018, she was appointed to the position of General Director of the International and Comparative Law Research Center.

Since April 2021 — Deputy General Director of the International and Comparative Law Research Center.

Regularly participates in the work of the Working Groups of the UN Commission on International Trade Law as a representative of the Center which has an observer status. She speaks at Russian and international events on the topics of the Center's work (international law, trade law and investment, sustainable development, etc.).